All About History

It is said that history is a conversation between the past and the present. We cannot go unwaveringly into the future if we do not reflect on the past in the present. Because of this, Incheon frequently remembers and looks back on the past. Incheon has faced hardships, reflected on the past, and moved forward. We are starting fresh steps today in the direction of freedom and peace.

73rd Anniversary
Incheon Landing Operation Commemoration Event

Incheon, where the landing operation took place, is the sea of war and peace. The path taken by Incheon, which responded to the crisis and safeguarded the Korean Peninsula at every terrible time, was the path of Korean history and the historical event permanently etched in the minds of the Incheon people. Incheon staged a community-driven "73rd Anniversary Incheon Landing Operation Commemoration Event" to reevaluate the historical significance of the September 15 Incheon Landing Operation. We examined the occasion that evoked those illustrious times with veterans and average citizens.

RUMINATING ON THE DAY

ALL ABOUT [HISTORY]

- ① Reliving the glory of the day with veterans
- ② Remembering the day with citizens forever

Peace, the Challenge Left Behind by War

The fierce battles on September 15, 1950, notably those involving Wolmido and Palmido Islands, were magnificently reenacted in Incheon. General MacArthur oversaw the execution of the Incheon Landing Operation at a time when the war was in a dire crisis. This operation, in which the understanding of Incheon's terrain was paramount, became a game-changer that turned the tide of the war. Incheon prepared a large celebration to mark this occasion this year. By transforming the scars of battle into a symbol of peace and elevating it to a worldwide event, the goal was to reexamine the meaning of history and discover new values for a global city.

2

Celebrating Victory and Honoring Sacrifice

The reenactment must unquestionably be the focal point of the "73rd Anniversary Incheon Landing Operation Commemoration Event." The Incheon Landing Operation took place in the waters near Incheon, and several festivities were planned to celebrate the victory on a larger scale, including the "Flower Offering to the Statue of General MacArthur" and the "Combined Landing Operation Reenactment" Veterans' presence at the event gave it a more profound message. In addition to rejoicing in the victory, participants pondered upon the souls of those who had to make tragic sacrifices. On the same day, a flower-offering ceremony was held in Wolmi Park to remember the people of Wolmi Island who had died due to American bombing during the landing operation.

Engraving Peace into Citizens' Memories

The number of events in which veterans and Incheon residents can participate in the "73rd Anniversary Incheon Landing Operation Commemoration Event" has dramatically expanded as it boasts the largest size ever. New memories transformed the perception of "pain" into "peace," from street marches to honor the nation's veterans to a special film screening, an online photo show, and a warship boarding event.

On September 13 and 15, Incheon and the Navy allowed locals to board a warship over two days. The combined landing operation reenactment included a victory ceremony on the ship, a display of the Incheon landing operation, and a sea inspection. Citizens were permitted to participate in the historical scene on the demonstration ship (Dokdo), while the main event was on the sitting ship (Nojeokbong).

Patriotic Street Parade

A splendid street parade that you only see in movies took place in the Dongincheon area of Jung-gu. On the event day, a march was held from the Jung-gu Art Platform to the Bupyeong-gu Camp Market, divided into walking and vehicle movements. First, in the 1.7km section from the Art Platform to Dongincheon Station, the Navy military band, honor guard, and equipment that citizens usually see, such as police motorcycles, tanks, armored vehicles, and armored search vehicles, appeared, arousing the curiosity of citizens. The event shined even brighter by the presence of the mayor of Incheon, the head of Jung-gu office, military personnel, and other officials and residents.

DECISIVE MOMENT FOR PEACE

The Incheon Landing Operation is a significant event in contemporary Korean history. Here are some images that will give you a clear picture of the period. Jemulpo Club built a venue and hand-picked photos from various media to showcase the historical events and procedures of the Incheon Landing Operation. It encapsulates the pivotal second of that day when we sacrificed all to advance toward a peaceful future.

Incheon has always been the stage for large and small wars that broke out in Korea, including the French Campaign against Korea, the United States expedition to Korea, the Incheon Landing Operation, and the Battle of Yeonpyeong. We are now living in the vibrant, sparkling city of Incheon because there were patriotic martyrs who sacrificed their lives to protect the Korean Peninsula. We met those who adorned a brilliant history until Incheon became a 'city of peace and harmony.'

Turning Point of the Korean War, Incheon Landing Operation (Operation Chromite)

At 06:33am on 15 Sep 1950. 261 vessels and some 75,000 U.N. troops, led by the U.S. 7th Fleet, landed in Wolmi Island (Green Beach) in Incheon. Two U.S. divisions and two South Korean regiments participated in the operation. 1/5,000 chance of success. Incheon Port's waterway was narrow and the current was fast. The 10-meter-long tidal wave and squalid mudflats were the worst conditions for landing operations. However, General Douglas MacArthur, the supreme commander of the Pacific Allied Forces, carried out an operation that everyone said was impossible, reversing the unfavorable situation at once. Our troops, who landed on Wolmido Island and secured a bridgehead, advanced along the Gyeongin National Road and restored Seoul in 13 days to seize the victory of the Korean War.

Twenty and Went to the Battlefield

"I went to the battlefield thinking that I would not exist if I did not have a country. I was ready to fight for my life." Kang Yong-hee (92), Head of the Incheon Branch of the Korean War Veterans Association, joined Unit 8240* at age 20 and fought countless battles. After a fierce battle, half of his troops disappeared. He also has been through the crossroads of life and death numerous times. "War must never happen again. All citizens must come together to create a richer and stronger country. This is what I want to tell our descendants." Wolmido, the island in front of Incheon Port, defended the Korean Peninsula. Standing in front of the 'Green Beach Sign Stone' in the early morning at dusk, he feels numb and poignant. The roars of patriots that shook the land and sea 73 years ago seem to be heard at a distance.

People who Survived the Life's Ordeal

After the ceasefire, refugees who fled from the north to the south settled in Incheon. With native Incheon people they endured the pain of separation and hardships and built a new life by working relentlessly. They gathered mainly in Manseok-dong, Bukseong-dong, Subong Park, and Dokjaengi (Yonghyeon-dong), built huts, and formed a slum called 'Kkobang Dongne.' Dokjaengi is the hometown of Lee In-cheol (72), President of the Five North Korean Provinces Natives Association. His parents, who defected from Hamgyeong-do to South Korea immediately after liberation, fled to Busan with their newborn son on their back and returned to Incheon as soon as the war ended and settled there. The war damage was devastating. But there was no time to recover from the damage. "We had to survive in a ruined city. We survived on leftover food from US military bases and sujebi (clear soup with dumplings) made with coarse feed ingredients from flour mills... Even that, we could only have it once a day."

Lee In-cheol, President of the Five North Korean Provinces Natives Association

Sea Becomes Home for Displaced People

The sea embraced the displaced people who came to the south empty-handed. "I barely made a living by unloading cargoes at the dock or working at the Incheon Port construction site. "People without jobs made a living by gathering and selling coal that fell from a freight car from the coal dock in Manseok-dong or chopping and selling firewood from the mountains." When Lee was ten, everyone installed a briquette furnace in their houses. As their lives stabilized, the displaced people, who longed for their hometown, organized a hometown alum association to keep in touch with each other starting in the late 1950s. The association promoted scholarship programs for children of displaced people, the construction of the Mangbaedan Altar, and the establishment of a cemetery park for their families. This year, as part of the commemoration event for the 73rd anniversary of the Incheon Landing Operation, the 'Incheon North Korean Provinces Natives Cultural Festival,' an event for the unity of the displaced people, was held. Peace is displayed in Incheon by overcoming the pain of war and division at the Sangsang Platform at Pier 8 of the Inner Port on September 16 and at the Ganghwa Peace Observatory the next day.

The park has a small hill, as implied by its name, Haedoji (Sunrise) — a sky as deep and blue as fall opens up as you climb the hill. The Metasequoia Road at Haedoji Park is a great place to go if you want to experience fall more fully. You can heal yourself with a simple stroll beneath the red maple trees. Cosmos of various colors blooming in Gyeyang Kkonmaru (Flower Field)

Consider spending the autumn at Gyeyang Kkonmaru (Flower Field), where the cosmos produces a massive wave of flowers blooming all at once. Gyeyang Kkonmaru is well-known as a prime location for seeing flowers in Incheon, with fields bursting with cosmos in September and October and vivid yellow rape flowers in May and June each year. Seeing the yellow and pink cosmos in full bloom creates a breathtaking vision. The trail is lined by daepssari, which changes color based on the season, and the cosmos dances with the breeze.

Gyeyang Kkonmaru has uncommon flora rarely seen in Korea and is divided into three themes: Fragrant Forest, Evergreen Forest, and Wind Forest. With its silver grass and colorful maple trees, the Wind Forest is where you can experience the spirit of fall. MEXICO

Incheon is vast and has many restaurants, but finding a restaurant that suits your taste buds is not always easy. But if you are a reader of <2023 Incheon Now>, it is a different story. This is a series of restaurants serving foreign cuisines in Incheon that you can visit regardless of where you are from. Our fifth choice is the 「Mexican Food」.

인천은 넓고 식당은 많다지만, 내 입맛에 맞는 식당을 찾기란 어렵다. 하지만 <2023 인천 나우>의 독자라면 걱정 없다. 서로 다른 국적도 문제없는 인천의 외국 식당 시리즈. 그 다섯 번째, 「멕시코 음식」이다.

+ Mexico

It is located in the southwestern end of North America, and its capital is Mexico City. The Mayan, Toltec, and Aztec Indian civilizations all thrived there. Spain colonized it in 1521, but the Agreement of Cordoba of 1821 gave it its independence.

It means establishing a special friendly relationship between cities to deepen mutual understanding through cultural exchanges. The city that has a sisterhood relationship with Incheon City is 'Merida.'

A unique signboard with a vivid combination of chili, beef, and vegetables stands out among the old spaces. The "TAXCO MARKET" is located in the open port area of Incheon, where there is a wealth of modernization-era culture. The emergence of this location that pays respect to Mexico is congruent with the history of TAXCO MARKET, a well-known traditional market still in operation in Mexico. Because of this, TAXCO MARKET has a clear competitive edge thanks to its stylish façade, intense interior, and unique Mexican cuisine. To put it simply, "TAXCO MARKET is Mexico."

Real Mexican Food, Born through a Period of Hard Work

Food that captivates the public's appetite is never created in a day. It can only be finished once the insight attained after many tries and errors has been experienced. This is well demonstrated by the Mexican food at TAXCO MARKET, which has captured the palates of locals and visitors. The owner of TAXCO MARKET, Han Jin-gyu, has spent much time studying recipes. In addition to learning Spanish, he also acquired and read every book on Mexican cuisine. As a result, "Tacos, Quesadillas, and Burritos," three authentic Mexican menus, were developed. They are currently offered as well-liked dishes at TAXCO MARKET and fascinate Koreans and tourists with their robust and thrilling flavors.

인고의 시간을 거쳐 탄생한 리얼 멕시코 푸드

대중의 입맛을 사로잡는 음식은 결코 단기간에 완성되지 않는다. 수많은 시행착오 끝에 얻은 깨달음을 맛본 후에야 비로소 완성된다. 내·외국인 모두의 입맛을 사로잡은 타스코마켓의 멕시코 푸드는 이 법칙을 보란 듯이 증명한다. 타스코마켓의 한진규 대표는 오랜 시간 레시피 연구를 이어왔다. 스페인어 공부를 비롯해, 멕시코 음식 관련 서적은 모조리 구매해 연구하고 또 연구했다. 그 결과 '타코, 퀘사디아, 부리또'라는 리얼 멕시코 푸드 3대장이 탄생했다. 이들은 강렬하고도 자극적인 맛으로 내·외국인 모두의 혀끝을 매료시키며, 현재 타스코마켓의 인기 메뉴로 절찬 판매 중이다.

There is an Interesting Display Stand at TAXCO MARKET

TAXCO MARKET is a grocerant* that serves Mexican dishes and imports and sells local Mexican products. The grocery display counter at the front of the store serves as its defining feature. The most popular spices, seasonings, and snacks from the US and Mexico are among the uncommon delicacies that must be flown for 17 hours to reach the shelves. People from Mexico are occasionally quite amazed by this and experience intense nostalgia. The gastronomic culture of Mexico has been brought to Korea via TAXCO MARKET. Let's take full advantage of this place's compelling and intense Mexican moments.

타스코마켓에는 신기한 진열대가 있다

타스코마켓은 그로서란트* 매장으로 음식뿐만 아니라, 멕시코 현지 물품을 병행수입해 판매한다. 매장 입구에 비치된 식료품 진열대가 그 원천이다. 진열대에는 미국·멕시코에서 가장 인기 있는 향신료와 조미료, 과자 등 약 17시간을 날아가야 볼 수 있는 진귀한 식료품이 가득하다. 가끔 현지인들이 이 광경을 보고 매우 놀라며, 진한 향수에 빠져든다고 이처럼 멕시코의 식문화 자체를 옮겨다 놓은 타스코마켓 이곳이 전하는 강렬하고도 자극적인 멕시코의 시간을 온전히 풀어보자.

* Grocerant A compound word for Grocery+Restaurant, a food culture space that sells a variety of food ingredients and allows you to taste food prepared with them. It is also called a 'complex food store.'

MINI INTERVIEW

HAN JIN-GYU OWNER 한진규 대표

Q WHY DID YOU DECIDE TO OPEN 'TAXCO MARKET' IN THE OPEN PORT AREA?

I considered the aesthetic of the area when creating the brand. This is because indoor and external settings stimulate people's interest in food. The store's identity may be most expressed in the open port area, where the past and present coexist. Additionally, we anticipate reviving the market in the future.

Q '타스코마켓'이 개항장에 자리를 잡은 이유는 무엇인가요?

브랜드를 만들 때, 공간에 대한 이미지를 생각했습니다. 외적 공간과 내적 공간이 음식에 대한 호기심을 자아내기 때문인데요. 과거와 현재가 공존하는 개항로는 가게의 이미지를 가장 잘 표현할 수 있는 동네입니다. 앞으로의 시장 활성화가 기대되기도 하고요.

Q WHAT ARE YOUR SIGNATURE MENUS?

There are plenty, but I'll pick "Suadero Taco" from the list. It is our signature taco and a representation of Mexican street food. Toppings include tortillas, green salsa, and onions. It is made with deep-fried beef brisket, tripe, and sausage.

Q 이곳의 시그니처 메뉴가 궁금합니다.

너무 많지만, 그중 '수아데로 타코'를 말씀드릴게요. 멕시코 길거리 음식의 대명사로, 튀기듯 삶아낸 소양지, 곱창, 소시지를 토띠아와 그린 살사 양파를 얹혀 먹는 저희 매장 대표 타코입니다.

Q COULD YOU DESCRIBE 'TAXCO MARKET' IN ONE WORD?

'Mexicoria,' which means Korea's little Mexico. It is the only word to explain the store's concept that has transported part of Mexico to Incheon.

Q '타스코마켓'을 한 마디로 표현해 주신다면?

'멕시코리아'입니다. 이는 곧 한국의 작은 멕시코라는 의미인데요. 멕시코 자체를 옮겨다 놓은 저희 매장 컨셉을 대변할 수 있는 유일무이한 단어라고 생각합니다.

Q PLEASE SAY A WORD TO YOUR CUSTOMERS AND <INCHEON NOW> READERS.

I've been managing the shop for eight months now. I appreciate the love and support I have received, although I still have a lot of shortcomings. We will continue to do research and work to become "Mexicoria, TAXCO MARKET" so that more people may conveniently enjoy Mexican cuisine. You will always receive the best rewards from us. Many thanks!

Q 식당의 손님과 <INCHEON NOW> 독자분들에게 한 마디 부탁드립니다.

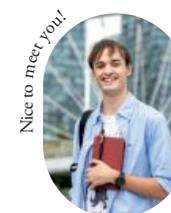

가게를 운영한 지 8개월이 되어가네요. 아직 미흡한 부분이 많지만 보내주신 사랑과 응원에 감사함을 느낍니다. 앞으로도 더 많은 연구와 노력을 통해 더 많은 분들이 멕시코 푸드를 쉽게 접할 수 있도록, '멕시코리아, 타스코마켓'이 되도록 최선을 다하겠습니다. 항상 최고의 맛으로 보답하겠습니다. 감사합니다.

ENGLISH WRITING SKILLS IMPROVED IN COLLEGE

Writing well in your native language is not easy. Writing in a foreign language is even more challenging. However, if you constantly try, brighter days come at last. We traced the intense and long journey of 'Ui-jeong,' who found it difficult to order something at a restaurant in the United States, up to the days before graduation from SUNY Korea.

Experiencing America for The First Time in My Life

In my final year of high school, I lived and studied in school and crammer. But part of me imagined spending my days swimming and relaxing on a beach in America. I had always dreamed of living abroad, and after taking the college entrance exam, I prepared for a language course in the United States as if it were a reward for the days I had to give up everything to study. My life in America began abruptly and can be perfectly described by a common saying, "Those who are ignorant are brave." Because my English was poor, I used my body language when ordering, and for a while, Korean often came out while trying to speak English.

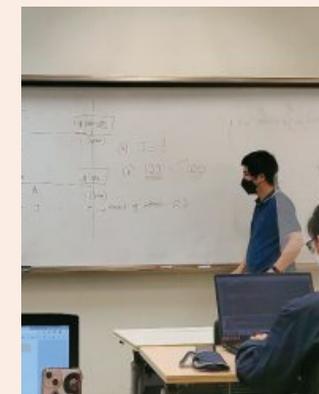

From the First Level Test to Class Assignment

In America, there are different races of people, different lifestyles, and different ways of seeing life. As I experienced and learned many things besides English at an American university, I realized I wanted to continue studying abroad. I returned to Korea and enrolled in the Applied Mathematics and Statistics department at SUNY Korea. After admission, the class level for English and math is determined through a level test. The test results showed that my math was okay, but my English writing was problematic. There are four levels: WAE192 → WAE194 → WRT101 → WRT102, and you must pass WRT101 at the end to graduate. My English level was WAE194. At the time, I felt a dire need for English writing skills.

English Writing, Improving Step by Step

I thought writing skills depended on how much I was exposed to. I set aside some time daily to read internet news, etc., increasing the time gradually, like 10 minutes at first and 30 minutes after a month. Afterward, I copied down and memorized sentences I liked and sometimes made references to YouTube videos on writing. After becoming familiar with English sentences, I wrote a short story about my daily activities or a diary. After about three months of doing this, my fear of writing in English disappeared, and good sentences began to be imprinted in my mind. If I am not consistent, I can go back to the beginning. I must always keep writing and not lose my sense of it.

Completing All Writing Classes

I only knew how to write short sentences, but I could write five pages this way. This is a way to improve your writing skills in a short time. If you have your own study method, you can also combine it with this method. When I first enrolled, I only dreamed of a happy campus life, but in reality, it was not easy because there was a lot to do, from department assignments to writing. I was regretting at some point, but a friend told me, "You decided to come to this school, so hang in there." In the end, I passed the final writing course, and I am about to graduate. All this became a positive episode in my life, showing that I worked hard.

KOREANS IN JAPAN : THE HISTORY OF OVERCOMING ADVERSITY

Written by Choi Eun-jung | Photograph by Yoo Seung-hyeon

"Koreans in Japan: the history of overcoming adversity" is the title of a special exhibition that the Museum of Korea Emigration History, the Dongnong Memorial Association Kang Deok Sang Data Center, and the Museum of Korean Japanese History are co-hosting. It depicted the struggles of Koreans living in Japan under the name "Zainichi" for more than 100 years.

Location Special Exhibition Hall,
The Museum of Korea Emigration History

Period August 29 - December 3, 2023

ENDURING OVER 100 YEARS WITH A HEART FOR THE MOTHERLAND

Koreans first arrived in Japan during the colonial era. Korean colonial immigrants faced a harsh, risky, and hard life in Japan after crossing the sea to escape their poverty. After being liberated, the Koreans who remained in Japan assimilated into Japanese society, battling racial and institutional prejudice and referring to themselves as "Zainichi." They never wavered in their affection for their native land despite their constant struggles for survival.

The exhibition hall showcases unique, original artifacts from the Great Kanto Earthquake of September 1923, including pictures, calligraphy, paintings, and photographs of Japanese vigilantes and Korean victims, as well as press coverage from the time. In addition, a lot of photos, videos, as well as actual abacus and pachinko, are used to decorate everything in three dimensions, from the lives of forcibly mobilized Korean workers to the strong appearance of Zainichi, who continues to make one improvement after another while leading a challenging life amid discrimination that does not change even after liberation.

LOOKING INTO THE HISTORY OF KOREANS IN JAPAN

The exhibition spans the historical constraints of Japanese colonial authority and the separation of the Korean Peninsula with the opening display, "Koreans Crossing the Strait to Escape Poverty," and the closing display, "Koreans Japanese' Love for Motherland." Despite prejudice and hardship, Koreans living in Japan provided assistance to Korea in a variety of ways. With no military service numbers, 642 young Koreans living in Japan at the time of the Korean War took part in the Incheon Landing Operation and the Pyongyang Recapture Operation as the so-called "Volunteer Army from Japan."

Beginning in the 1960s after the ceasefire, people began to financially assist their homeland. The launch of the Guro Industrial Complex, the fundraising effort for the 1988 Seoul Olympics, and the currency remittance drive during the IMF foreign exchange crisis all received their full support. Their passion for their own place also inspired the breathtaking views of Jinhangjae cherry blossoms and the mandarin oranges on Jeju Island.

TAKING STEPS TOWARD AN ECO-FRIENDLY FESTIVAL

Operate eco-friendly programs for visitors

Incheon's efforts to achieve carbon neutrality by 2045 continue at the festival. A number of carbon-neutral initiatives were carried out by <2023 Incheon Open Port Culture Night>, including using reusable containers and promoting public transit throughout the festival. We went to the festival grounds, where many attendees were taking action to become carbon-neutral.

Open Port Night, More Beautiful than Day

With more than a century of history, the Open Port Street in Jung-gu, Incheon, is a unique location that grants the gift of time travel simply by walking. Here and there, you can still witness remnants of the past and different cultural artifacts. Every fall, the Jung-gu Office hosts a festival to honor this, with the elegantly illuminated night of the harbor as a backdrop. The "Incheon Open Port Culture Night" is jam-packed with events that let you take advantage of the open port's cultural assets in numerous ways. Eight programs were run under the "Eight Nights" concept during the first night tour last August. For the occasion, cultural institutions representing the open port's contemporary value, such as the Modern Architecture Museum and the Incheon Open Port Museum, were opened at night, and several experiential activities were planned to provide participants a chance to learn about the port's past. Additionally, the "Media Art Show" featured a vibrant LED performance deserving of the moniker of a night tour. There were also other activities in which the public could take part, including "Storytelling Walking Tour," "Incheon Easy (App) Mobile Stamp Tour," and "140-person flash mob."

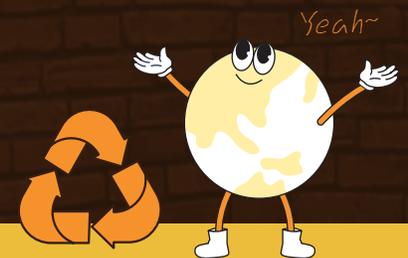

Eco-friendly Night Walk for Carbon Neutrality

This year's "Incheon Open Port Culture Night" will feature a brand-new activity. The festival's theme was "eco-friendliness." In addition to Incheon City's commitment to becoming carbon neutral by 2045, residents could engage in a modest and simple carbon neutrality exercise at night at the open port. By putting together various carbon-neutral programs like the "Use Container Challenge," which was the first night trip to carry food in a reusable container, and the "Open Port Eco Friends" program, which lowers carbon footprints by promoting the use of public transportation, it was positively evaluated as an example of a "eco-friendly night trip." With the second night tour, which will take place in October, the "2023 Incheon Open Port Culture Night" will end. On a crisp fall night, visit the Incheon Open Port to admire stunning lights and cultural landmarks. More specific information is available on the website and SNS for the Incheon Open Port Culture Night.
